CONFESSIONS OF A RABBI

Jonathan Romain

The secrets of the confessional are too important to be kept secret, and Jonathan Romain shares them all in a rollercoaster of crises, emotional traumas, moral dilemmas, attempts at seduction, multiple murders, machievellian families, funerals that go wrong, weddings that are hijacked, and how he had to fight his way through a maze of other people's sexual fantasies.

His previous careers – as a radio agony aunt, prison chaplain, postman and nightclub bouncer – have helped him navigate the human jungle and he takes us with him on a remarkable journey spiced with wit and wisdom.

He reveals the extraordinary stories of ordinary people and provides a window into the human condition, which may also prove a mirror of ourselves. They range from the excruciating to the magical, from the idiotic to the heroic, and they make a fascinating story.

The adage that 'truth is stranger than fiction' applies in page after page, and the book will leave readers amazed by the situations that people get themselves into, as well as relieved that they managed to avoid the worst of them. It is a wonderful mix of humour and insights.

- Candid, poignant and often hilarious memoir.
- Author is a seasoned broadcaster and writer whose wise and wry look at the nitty-gritty of everyday life will be in demand.
- Introduction by Maureen Lipman.
- Print and broadcast media interest anticipated.
